Dorothea Lange was an American documentary photographer who studied photography at Columbia University and worked as an assistant to Arnold Genthe before beginning a photographic trip around the world in 1918. Daring to look: Dorothea Lange’s photographs and reports from the field.

Dorothea Lange’s images of Depression-era America made her one of the most acclaimed documentary photographers of the 20th century. She is remembered above all for revealing the plight of sharecroppers, displaced farmers, and migrant workers in the 1930s and her portrait of Florence Owens Thompson, migrant mother (Nipomo, California, 1936), has been an icon of the period.

Daring to Look: Dorothea Lange’s photographs and reports from the field, quarterly journal of speech, vol 95 no 4 pp 471-473. Looking at Dorothea Lange here and now.

Daring to Look presents never before published photos and captions from Dorothea Lange’s fieldwork in California, the Pacific Northwest, and North Carolina during 1939. Lange’s images of squatter camps, benighted farmers, and stark landscapes are stunning and her captions, which range from simple explanations of settings to historical notes and biographical sketches, add an extra layer of meaning to the photographs.
